Course Description
A fresh approach to minimally invasive gynecologic education, with an emphasis on evidence-based protocols and the most current, state-of-the-art innovations in the operating room. Content will include surgical and medical innovations of surgical techniques, and management of surgical complications. Surgical simulation, a practical approach to teaching vaginal hysterectomy, choice of hysterectomy route, discussion of open power morcellation, management of pelvic floor relaxation and stress urinary incontinence, as well as an opportunity to practice laparoscopic suturing, robotic suturing and perform a simulated TVH on the Hopkins low-fidelity model. Featured distinguished faculty from Banner Health/University of Arizona as well as guest faculty from the Mayo Clinic, Columbia University, Johns Hopkins and Harvard University.

Who Should Attend?
MISG Surgeons • MISG Fellows • Practicing OB/GYN Physicians • Nurse Practitioners and PA’s • Surgical Assistants and OR Nurses • Residents and Medical Students

At the end of this Conference attendees will understand:

1. Pelvic anatomy as it relates to minimally invasive surgery.
2. Theoretical and surgical aspects of minimally invasive surgery.
3. Basic principles of laparoscopic suturing in a minimally invasive way.
4. The role of simulation in surgical education and in the management of surgical complications.
5. Understand advanced techniques in minimally invasive reoperation.
6. Review current recommendations for minimally invasive techniques.
